If a Consul were appointed in Hongkong, what might the "subscriptions" amount to here, and to what extent have the subscriptions been entirely voluntary at Singapore? The Minister is not quite correct in saying that since the establishment of a Consulate at Singapore there has been no complaint whatever. A formal complaint was made on the subject of the Consul's action in connection with the collection of the so-called coast-defence sub. scriptions. In fact, even in the | memorial the right of taxation is assumed to exist. The writer speaks of the "fees for personal registration" and suggests that they might inined very well be given to the Consul for his emolument; remarking in a casual manner that "there is no necessity to collect vast sums of money in such wise as to excite un-HONGKONG TRADING CO., LIMITED. favourable popular notice"—the inference being that it would be legitimate to squeeze to any extent short of exciting unfavourable

The numerous embassies and missions sent abroad during the past dozen Catalogues the Seeds are Marginally Numbered | years and the students educated in Europe in English and Chinese, and when ordering it is and America have brought back with them some knowledge of the outward forms of Western civilization, but they have done little towards teaching the nation that honesty, truthfulness, and the fulfilment of obligations are the foundation on which any claim to equality of treatment must be built up. Lacking this foundation the claim caunot stand, and how sadly lacking sidents at Wusleh and other places in China. it is has been proved only too amply by the recent savage riots and the inaction of the authorities in regard to them. There has been too much of a tendency of late years on the part of the Powers to treat China on terms of equality, with the result that Treaty obligations have been flouted and just claims by foreigners left unsatisfied. The riots have preved a rade awakening, but they will not have been without their use if they have permanently impressed the foreign Governments with the nature of the forces at work in China. The time has not yet arrived when the policy of co . . pulsion can be abandoned in the dealings of Western Powers with China. Compulsion the Chinese understand; to it they will yield; but argument is lost upon them. The advocates of a mild and conciliatory policy constantly lose sight of fact that Oriental so-called civilization morally so different and inferior to that of Western nations that it is both absurd and impracticable to attempt to treat with Chinese statesmen as with those of Europe. Expediency is the rule that governs their actions and duplicity is as common to them as the air they breathe; of honesty and 119 trutbfulness for their own sake they have no appreciation. Here and there we may find an exception, such as the late Marquis Teene, CHARG CHIH-TUNG, and we hope we may add H'sugn Fu-cheng, notwithstanding his somewhat hezy ideas on the subject of Consular-squeezing. -Men-like these, howevor, are exceptions; the vast majority elect WE publish to-day a series of important to follow the devious courses of Li Hungmemorials by the Chinese Minister in England CHANG. Harcourt asked the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, having regard to the outrages recently reported upon European rewhether he would state what measures had been taken for the protection of British residents on the Chinese coast, and what was the present situation in that region. Sir J. Fergusson—In a letter from the British Admiral on the China Station, dated Shangbal, May 23, he stated that he had strengthened the force of British vessels in the river Yangtze Kiang, and that four would be stationed there; in addition, there was a German gunboat at Hankow, and three ships of war in the river. Sir John Walsham reported on the 21st ult, that there were nine foreign menof-war in the river and also a strong naval force at Shanghai on the day following the outbreak of the riot. The Chinese Government appear to be fully alive to the gravity of the situation, and on the first outbreak at Wuhn telegraphed to the Vicercy to take immediate action. In reply to the representations made to them on the parof bur Mujesty's Government, they have given assurances that a rigorous investigation would be made into the circumstances attending these auti-foreign riots, and that none of the guilty parties should go unpunishe . Two men have been executed at Wubu, two condemned to death at Wusueh, and, several mandarins degraded Correspondence on the subject will be laid before Parliament as soon as it can be prepared.
